

In 2018, you helped Mariann share her talents...

When Mariann Mundt sees a head without a hat, her fingers begin to tingle. This avid knitter is a client at St. Ann Center's Bucyrus Campus and is able to attend our day program because of your generous support.

Using a round loom, Mariann, 77, turns out beautifully stitched hats in a rainbow of colors. "I always keep my knitting with me," she says as she wraps strands of soft, woolly yarn around the pegs of her loom. "That way, I can work on my projects in between our activities."

More than a hobby, Mariann's knitting is her special way of reaching out to others. In fact, you'll see several of her handmade creations being proudly worn around the Bucyrus Campus by clients and staff members alike.

"I like it at St. Ann Center because my friends are here, and there's always something interesting going on," Mariann says. She's particularly excited about the addition of a brand-new Art Room to the campus. "I love doing crafts with the kids," she says about the many activities she enjoys with the center's day care children. "Maybe I can teach them how to knit!"

Mariann shows Rowan, 4, her latest knitting project.
