

In 2019, you helped Tom stay young at heart...

When Tom McGinnis retired after 46 years with the post office, he knew he couldn't sit still for long. Because of your generous support, this former Bay View letter carrier has a new route, and his favorite "customers" are too young to read.

A volunteer at St. Ann Center's Stein Campus, Tom helps the teachers in the Caterpillar Room twice a week, tending to lively one- and two-year-olds. "My wife says I get along with children so well because I'm pretty silly myself," Tom, 71, said with a grin.

A typical day finds Tom being swarmed by toddlers, giving him hugs and bringing him books to read to them. He wipes noses, comforts criers, ties shoes, passes out snacks and even doubles as Santa Claus. "My wife made me a Santa suit," he said, adding the beard is all his. "I talked with 60 kids last Christmas, and only one recognized me."

A firm believer in connecting the generations, Tom has seen it benefit many older adult clients at St. Ann Center. "Getting together with the kids livens them up," he said. "Everyone starts smiling and laughing." The children have the same effect on Tom. "They keep me young!"
