

2017

growth and development

In 2017 you met Dearotha...
now meet Lucille her giraffe

A colorful painted giraffe named Lucille has found her way back to St. Ann Center after making a splash in the Milwaukee art scene. The whimsical watercolor is the work of Dearotha Humphrey, a client who is able to attend the Bucyrus Campus because of your support and who's now a budding artist.

Dearotha tried painting for the first time a year ago when she joined Memories in the Making, an Alzheimer's Association art program offered at St. Ann Center. The program gives people with dementia the opportunity to voice their thoughts, emotions and memories through art. Dearotha's painting was chosen from more than 1,000 pieces created by program participants to be showcased in a traveling exhibition.

At Dearotha's request, her celebrated painting is now displayed where she spends her day. Since coming to the Bucyrus Campus, she has been inspired to be more active and try new things like painting. "I love it at St. Ann Center," she said. "So I thought this would be the best place for Lucille."
